As the consequence, suggestions are made as follows:

1. One stop service center should be established for the convenience of the people who come to ask for help.
2. Officers should be trained to advise the people with hospitality and with a good manner.
3. A group of police which is in charge of public relations should regularly visit the people in the neighborhoods in order to get more cooperation.
4. Media should be fully utilized in order to widen channels in contacting with the public.
5. Police should be equipped with more modern technology.
